DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 3, and 13 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1, 12, and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Friedrich et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,433,599).

In reference to claim 1, Friedrich discloses in Figure 1 an apparatus comprising a first circuit (1, 2, 3, 4, 5) configured to generate a second reference signal (CLOCK) in response to (i) a first reference signal (f_{Ref}) and (ii) a timing signal (the output of VCO 4), wherein (a) a frequency and a phase of the second reference signal (CLOCK) are adjusted in response to the first reference signal (f_{Ref}) and (ii) held when the first reference signal (f_{Ref}) is lost and (b) the first reference signal (f_{Ref}) comprises an external timing signal (the signal (f_{Ref}) itself is seen to be an external timing signal), wherein the first circuit comprises a digitally controlled reference loop circuit; and a second circuit (6, 7, 8) configured to generate one or more output signals (output of VCO 7) in response to the second reference signal (CLOCK) and one of the one or more output signals (output of VCO 7), wherein the one or more output signals has a controlled and/or substantially zero delay with respect to the first reference signal (f_{Ref}). The same applies to claims 12 and 13 (wherein the apparatus is implemented on a single integrated circuit chip (see ABSTRACT)).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Friedrich et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,433,599).

In reference to claim 3, Friedrich discloses all the limitations of the claim with respect to claim 1 as mentioned above including the phase locked loop (6, 7,8) configured to generate a clock signal in response to the second reference signal (CLOCK) and the one or more output signals (output of VCO 7). Friedrich does not disclose that the second circuit comprises a buffer circuit configured to generate the one or more output signals in response to the clock signal. However, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of the invention that a buffer could be added at the output of the VCO (7) for the advantage of cleaning up the output signal of the VCO (7) so that the phase locked loop can more accurately synchronize the output signal with the second reference signal (CLOCK).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 14-19 are allowed.
6. Claims 2, 4-8, and 10-11 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
7. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: Claims 2, 7-8 are allowable because the closest prior art of record fails to disclose a circuit as shown in Figure 2 wherein the first circuit (110) comprises an oscillator 122 configured to generate the second reference signal (REF) in response to the control signal (Ctrl) and the timing signal (Xin) in combination with the rest of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. Claim 4 would be allowable because the closest prior art of record fails to disclose a circuit as shown in Figure 3 wherein the second circuit (112) further includes a divide-by-N circuit (170) in combination with the rest of the limitations of the base claims and any intervening claims. Claims 5 and 10 would be allowable because the closest prior art of record fails to disclose a circuit as shown in Figure 2 wherein the PLL (140) is an analog circuit in combination with the rest of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. Claim 11 would be allowable because the closest prior art of record fails to disclose a circuit as shown in Figure 3 wherein the first circuit (110) further comprises a divide-by-

N circuit (160) in combination with the rest of the limitations of the base claims and any intervening claims.

8. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Claims 14-19 are allowed because the closest prior art of record fails to disclose a circuit as shown in Figure 3 wherein the second reference signal (Ref) comprises a crystal oscillator signal (X_{IN}) in combination with the rest of the limitations of the base claims and any intervening claims.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
